Greater flexibility. More creative freedom.

Interface was born to think differently. And we are driven by design. When we introduced the square tiles, it was the beginning of a revolution in carpet. Suddenly, architects and designers could create more flexible workspaces with floors that were simple to fit and pleasing on the eye.

With the introduction of Planks, we continue the evolution of modular carpet and take our customers to a new world of creative possibilities. By adding a new dimension to the tiles, we've opened up a whole new world of creative possibilities – with greater scope for distinct and subtle zoning throughout any interior space.

Urban Retreat 501 is the first collection available as Planks.

The maths is simple

The square is geometry's version of perfection – which made it the ideal place for us to start our modular flooring.

Planks, however, are narrower rectangular tiles, exploring new modular formats. Urban Retreat 501 is available as skinny Planks 25 cm x 100 cm. This means the geometry still works perfectly across all our tiles, whether 50 x 50 cm squares or Planks.

Planks add an evolution of style and functionality to our range, opening the way to unique expressions of direction, texture and pattern.

Sophisticated simplicity

By exploring contrast and juxtaposition, Planks open up almost limitless design possibilities and allow designers to make things as simple – or sophisticated – as they want.

Herringbone, Quarter turn, Ashlar, Brick. The options for new installation are endless – as are the combinations of formats, textures, colours and patterns. Urban Retreat 501 is suitable for herringbone and ashlar installation. This gives possibilities for very expressive designs, as well as a perfect, seamless appearance right across even the largest of rooms.

Sometimes, the simplest changes can have the greatest effect. If you want advice about transforming your space, our designers will be happy to explore options with you.

More than just a 'nice place to work'

Increased productivity. Staff retention. More creativity. Today, businesses understand the value of strong, creative interiors. Not just to create a pleasant working environment – but to drive real impact on the bottom line. As such, designers are increasingly challenged to create spaces that help communicate distinctive values – for organisations and brands.

Modular flooring has an important role to play in new workplace design. With their flexibility and versatility, Planks and square tiles, are ideal to create spaces within spaces – and support workplace creativity. They even come with inbuilt economic benefits – because there is little installation waste, and changes to the design can be made easily and quickly.

Sustainability First

For Interface, sustainability is non-negotiable. We are working hard to reach our goal of Mission Zero by 2020 – to have a zero negative impact on the environment. And that means looking hard at every area of our business.

Planks are no exception. They come with the same credentials as our normal square tiles, such as having a high percentage of recycled content in their backing. Urban Retreat 501 is even made from 100% recycled nylon.

Planks can be fitted easily with Interface's glue-free and flexible TacTiles™ system, to minimize odor and emissions. What's more, all tiles can be recycled through our ReEntry® take-back scheme, to help reduce the amount of carpet sent to landfill or incineration at the end of their life.
